

Clemens Wöllner

is Professor of Systematic Musicology at the University of Hamburg, Germany. He has published widely on timing in perception and performance, expressiveness, attention and movement in music and beyond. His long-term research project “Slow Motion: Transformation of Musical Time in Perception and Performance” has been awarded a grant from the European Research Council. He is President of the German Society for Music Psychology, and serves in the boards of leading journals in the field.